
Company Profile

Vitæ Ltd was established in 2004 to take over the sales, marketing and ongoing product development of Vitæ Recruitment and HR software applications and services to the Agency and corporate markets.

Headquartered currently in listed Georgian House in central Newbury, Berkshire, UK and close to excellent Rail and Motorway links (M4 & M3), the company also has associated datacentres at the nearby and well-known Newbury Racecourse.

The Vitæ family of Recruitment software applications was conceived from many years of group experience in supplying custom database and application development services to major corporates in the Recruitment, Resettlement and HR arenas.

This experience, coupled with much input from clients, led us to the conviction that the Recruitment industry, served as it was by very traditional software applications based on conceptually similar designs, could benefit greatly from a more innovative approach made possible by some of the newly available technologies.

From the outset, the Vitæ development team set out both to challenge, but also to build upon, traditional concepts where these are of proven value. Evolution not Revolution.

The historical emphasis on small business units within the recruitment industry has meant that many traditional software applications were not designed for, and do not scale well to the needs of enterprise operations. Conversely, our own roots mean that Vitæ's pedigree has always been rooted in the needs of the enterprise.

Although a relatively new entrant to the recruitment arena, Vitæ's roots are in extremely well-proven concepts which have seen extensive use over long periods, bringing a level of new-product stability unusual in the software industry as our fast growing user base can attest. A user base already covering most sectors of the industry. Permanent; Temporary; ESS; Medical and Care; Industrial; Financial; Commercial; Technical; Executive; etc.

Any system or business process change is potentially costly and disruptive to the business, whatever the size. Our teams historical project management strengths make us strong and reliable partners for what, in any business, is likely to be a major change-management exercise

At it's launch, the Vitæ family already represented over 4 years of development effort. Despite our 'arrival' with functionality that matches and outstrips our competitors, this commitment to ongoing development remains undiminished. Our modern architecture provides a platform for the constant development of innovative new capabilities which those of our competitors based on more traditional architectures cannot hope to match.

At Vitæ we have two guiding lights which underpin all our activities

- ◆ Leadership through quality of service
- ◆ Leadership through our commitment to excellence in ongoing development

For further information contact your Vitæ account manager or <mailto:sales@srmvitae.com>.